How to Educate and Grow Your Referral Network

Patients often choose surgeons based on recommendations from referring physicians. By educating the referring physician on da Vinci Surgery, you can better reach the diagnosed patient during the decision-making process.

Importance of Outreach to Referring Physicians

- Referring physicians who hear from da Vinci surgeons are more than twice as likely to refer patients to consider da Vinci Surgery.

Steps for Referral Outreach

- Develop a Plan
  - Define your goals
  - Assign a champion
  - Create an outreach gameplan that includes at least 7 – 10 Touch Points (see back page)
  - Develop target lists of referrers in primary, secondary and tertiary markets
  - Prioritize your target lists for outreach activities
  - Set up tracking and timelines to review progress
  - Download referral education materials off da Vinci Surgery Online Community

- Reach Out & Educate
  - Use Touch Point interactions to boost outreach (see back page)
  - Send introductory letters
  - Visit referral offices to build one-on-one relationships
  - Schedule referring physician education sessions
  - Highlight procedures and/or recent updates
  - Focus on relevant topics for referring physicians (see back page)
  - Customize referral education materials with your own data

- Communicate Consistently
  - Be consistent, concise and clear on referral directions
  - Call pre-operatively with patient updates and surgery plans
  - Provide post-op report for every patient
  - Supply referral tear pads to referral offices to hand out to patients

- Track & Evaluate
  - Create an easy tracking process
  - Record referring physician, date and procedure for each patient referral
  - Review monthly to monitor referral levels from each referring physician
  - Analyze referral results
  - Evaluate growth opportunities from current and potential referring physicians quarterly
  - Adjust outreach plans accordingly

TOP 3 BEST PRACTICES FOR FOSTERING REFERRAL RELATIONSHIPS

1. Engage & Interact in Multiple Ways.

Reaching consistently with 7 – 10 touch points. "A letter is just not enough." That's what we hear from hospitals and surgeons. The effort must be multifaceted and consistent to have impact.

Assign a dedicated champion. This person will interact with all touch points, grow referrals, manage existing relationships, and track results.

2. Increase Familiarity.

Share your expertise. We often hear "I am not sure what procedures he/she does robotically." If referring physicians don't know this information about you, how would they know to refer patients to you?

Interact face-to-face. 77% of PCPs prefer to learn about da Vinci Surgery from a local surgeon. They especially notice and remember any extra efforts outside of daily routines, such as an office visit or hallway conversation.

Keep educational topics relevant. Referring physicians want to learn about da Vinci Surgery as part of an overall surgery update relevant to their practice, including:

- Surgery options
- Surgeons & expertise level
- % MIS (surgeon vs. nat’l)
- How da Vinci works
- da Vinci procedures
- Clinical data (local/published)
- Potential patient benefits
- Patient selection criteria

Reach out regularly, even after referrals begin. They expect to hear from you for ongoing education. Keep top of mind with them by providing updates that reinforce your active referral relationship.

Make working with you easy. A positive referral experience will capture the attention of patients, physicians and staff.

Communicate consistently pre- and post-op. Communication is critical but be concise and consistent. Pre-op updates and post-op reports help referring physicians quickly hone in on key data points such as surgery type or complications.

Track by physician to identify growth opportunities. Tracking helps you know the results of any outreach activities, and alerts you when referral volume declines from any specific physician so you can take the appropriate follow-up action.
